dents, often with joint financial responsibility for paying the gas and electricity (water bills are generally included in the rent).

Each occupant usually has a bedroom of their own and shares the kitchen, dining room/lounge and bathroom with all the tenants. Renting a bedsit is also possible.

A bedsit consists of one room furnished as a study bedroom with cooking facilities provided either in the room or in a separate kitchen.

You can expect to share a bathroom and toilet.

One thing you may notice in

Lodgings can provide a friendly environment

your first few weeks in Sheffield is that the city is currently undergoing a major property boom, with luxury apartment blocks springing up on just about every available vacant lot. Self-contained flats, with their own kitchen, living and bathroom facilities tend to be a more costly option but if you can afford the view there are many for rent.

At the other end of the scale, lodgings can provide a friendly environment for starting out in a new city.

They usually offer a room with part board- perhaps breakfast and a light meal or dinner - for seven days a week. ■
